with introductions to the individual chapters (singula capita argumentis aucta), containing numerous illustrations for a better historical understanding (pluribusque imaginibus...) and featuring an index of the Epistles and Gospels (indiceque Epistolarum, & Evangeliorum).* Place and Date of Printing: At the bottom is the inscription Venetiis, MDCCXXVII (Venice, 1727), accompanied by the printer's name, Apud Nicolaum Pezzana (At Nicola Pezzana's). The Pezzanas were a renowned and prolific dynasty of Venetian printers and booksellers active throughout the 17th and 18th centuries. The cover features a contemporary binding in full stiff parchment, typical of the 18th century, which is in excellent overall condition.The covers appear flat and stable; the edges are well-preserved, and there are no noticeable deformations or serious structural damage. The page edges show a uniform patina of age.
