Description

A significant oval-shaped medallion mirror made of carved and gilded wood in the Louis XVI style, featuring rich sculptural ornamentation of great finesse.Its imposing frame is enlivened by acanthus foliage, floral garlands, roses, and knotted ribbons--elements characteristic of the neoclassical decorative repertoire.The upper section is crowned by an elegant ribbon bow and an openwork composition with floral decoration, while the side panels are adorned with two medallions depicting classical-inspired busts. The lower section features the same knotted ribbon motif, accompanied by delicate garlands of flowers.The piece stands out for the richness of its decoration, the depth of its carving, and its monumental proportions.A remarkable ceremonial mirror, exceptionally decorative, ideal
