Description

A charming bronze group titled "The Ducks and the Frog" by Auguste CAIN (1821-1894).This bronze group, finished with a medal patina, features a truly lovely subject: two ducks, one perched on an old, broken bowl and the other catching a frog by the leg. I'm not sure if the ducks are eating the frogs or just playing, but the scene is amusing. Note the exquisite finesse of the chiseling by this master animal bronze sculptor. The feathers and heads are strikingly lifelike...The piece rests on an oval pedestal lined with felt underneath the base. 12 cm long, 10 cm tall, in perfect condition (patina present), signed "CAIN," circa 1880A superb antique animal bronze, featuring an original subject and beautiful chiseling.
