Description

The work bears a signature in the lower left corner, reading "M. B. Duplessis," and is set in an elegant, blackened antique frame decorated with gold pearls.A charming watercolor and ink wash composition depicting a scene of rural life in the late 18th century.In the foreground, several peasants are busy working around a team of horses and a wagon loaded with goods. In the background, a second carriage carrying travelers adds life to the rural landscape. The scene unfolds in a rural setting dotted with paths, fences, and rustic buildings.The drawing stands out for the finesse of its execution and the mastery of the ink wash, which lends depth to the figures, the horse-drawn carriages, and the landscape. The delicate shades of brown, gray, and ochre lend the entire scene a gentle and picturesque
