Description

Transition-period chest of drawers stamped "BIRCKLE" and "JME," dating from the 18th century. A remarkable Transition-period chest of drawers, stamped "BIRCKLE" and bearing the JME guild mark, featuring an elegant, curved silhouette with harmonious lines, reflecting the transition between the Louis XV and Louis XVI styles.Featuring a slightly central-projecting shape, the front features five drawers: three in the upper section, arranged around a central drawer, and two in the lower section, forming a structured and particularly refined composition.The front is richly adorned with high-quality geometric marquetry, composed of warm-toned veneers arranged in herringbone and radiating patterns, highlighted by delicate fillet frames forming spandrel panels.The beveled side panels are
