Description

Life-size statue of Napoleon III (1.80 m).The head and hands are made of wax, and the rest of the body is made of wood and plaster.The emperor is dressed in his ceremonial attire, boots, medals, and bicorne hat.This sculpture was designed for a wax museum, likely the Musée Grévin at the Forum des Halles in Paris, dating from the late 19th century to the early 1900s.A label under the costume confirms that it was part of a scene featuring Emir Abdelkader, whom he met in 1852.The statue is in perfect condition.Information and additional photos available upon request
