Description

Important Louis XV-era wedding mirror, made of finely carved and gilded wood, featuring rich Rococo ornamentation.Its sumptuous woodwork is distinguished by a profusion of volutes, scrolls, floral motifs, and delicate relief carvings.The pediment is particularly remarkable, adorned with an elegant motif of two birds facing each other, lending a touch of poetry and refinement to the piece as a whole.It retains its original gilding as well as its period mercury mirror.With its generous dimensions, the finesse of its carving, and the quality of its decoration, this mirror is a piece of great character.
