Description

Beautiful carved, gilded, and painted wooden panel. A smiling angel's head with a polychrome face, wings spread out on either side; gilded drapery extends from both sides of the face, supporting fruit. The background of the panel is gilded, with a frieze of foliage--also gilded--on a light blue background along the upper border. The corners of the panel have suffered damage from wood-boring insects. The wood has been treated; the back and most of the front are in very good condition. France or Italy, early 17th century, or even late 16th century.
