Description

An exquisitely refined small Louis XVI-style center desk, of Sicilian origin and dating from the second half of the 18th century, crafted from fine amaranth wood with elegant inlays in various types of wood.The piece stands out for its refined neoclassical design, characterized by clean, balanced lines, enhanced by sophisticated geometric inlay work that accentuates the contours of the drawers and side panels. The front features two practical drawers, adorned with metal vents and handles, while the side panels are accented by elegant raised panels and decorative motifs in an architectural style.Of particular elegance are the four tapered legs, embellished with thin trim in contrasting woods, which lend lightness and grace to the entire piece.A small piece of furniture of remarkable craftsmanship, an
