Description

A very beautiful Louis XV-era console table, also known as a "cul de lampe," featuring bronze fittings decorated with the mask of Bacchus.This console table could easily be mounted on the wall to serve as a stand for a bronze sculpture or a bust.Superb violet wood veneer with gilded bronze ornamentation featuring fine chiseled work of the "C Couronné" (see photo)--a mark stamped on the bronzes and copperwork between 1745 and 1749.The back of the frame still has its two period iron hooks and their wrought-iron nails.Very decorative!
