Description

Large tabletop made of polychrome scagliola -- A graphic approach by Pietro SolariDescription: An extraordinary and monumental tabletop crafted from polychrome scagliola, attributable to the style and artistic approach of the master Pietro Solari (or his circle), who was active in Lombardy between the late 17th and early 18th centuries.This refined artifact represents the pinnacle of artisanal virtuosity during the Baroque era, created to imitate and rival the costly inlays of semi-precious stones and precious marbles through the skillful use of selenite plaster, glue, and colored pigments.Decoration: The surface features a rigorous symmetrical and geometric layout, enlivened by rich acanthus scrolls, plant racemes, and flowering vines in vibrant colors that stand out against the dark
