Description

A flat-topped Louis XVI-style desk made of solid oak and oak veneer, fully restored by a workshop. The rectangular top, framed by a double border of oak veneer with pronounced grain, features a rounded, molded profile along the edges. The base features three drawers with metal ring pulls, equipped with three keys that were remade in the workshop; the dovetail joints on the drawers attest to meticulous cabinetmaking. The tapered, slightly curved legs--characteristic of the Louis XVI style--are topped with corner blocks shaped like carved consoles. The overall finish is uniform, a honey-gold hue, with no apparent flaws. The height below the cornice is 64 cm. The piece is entirely original in structure and has been restored to its overall condition; the locks and keys are functional. Dimensions: H. 78 cm -
