Antique Kashan Persian Rug, Pure Silk - 600,000 Knots/m² - Circa 1930

5 500 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Etat d'usage

Material : Silk

Length : 200 cm

Width : 133 cm

Description

Antique Kashan Persian Rug in Pure Silk - 600,000 Knots/m² - Circa 1930A magnificent antique Persian Kashan rug, dating from around 1930, entirely hand-knotted in 100% pure silk, featuring a remarkable floral design with a central medallion.This piece stands out for the fineness of its weave, the richness of its decorative composition, and the elegance of its color palette.With a density of approximately 600,000 knots per square meter and a pile height of 5 mm, this rug demonstrates particularly meticulous knotting, characteristic of fine Persian Kashan productions.Description of the Design At the center of the composition is a large, multi-lobed medallion in burgundy and midnight blue tones, delicately embellished with floral motifs in shades of pink, light blue, gold, and cream.The

Dealer

Decor Cinquantenaire
Antiquités
Mobile : 00327423171

30 place Saint Pierre
Brussels 1040

main field, with an ivory background, is entirely adorned with fine vegetal arabesques, stylized flowers, scrolls, and palmettes harmoniously arranged around the medallion.A wide border with a burgundy background, embellished with floral cartouches and polychrome motifs, frames the entire design. Several finely crafted secondary borders complete this refined composition.The combination of the luminous ivory background with the deep colors of the medallion lends this rug great decorative elegance.Weaving Quality and Material According to the information provided, this rug is made entirely of pure silk, with no wool or synthetic fibers mixed in.Its density of approximately 600,000 knots/m² corresponds to a fine knot structure, allowing for great precision in the execution of floral details and geometric patterns.The silk pile, approximately 5 mm high, has a delicate and refined appearance characteristic of high-quality silk rugs.The finesse of the workmanship highlights the technical mastery of the artisans and the richness of the Persian textile tradition.Detailed Characteristics Origin: Kashan, Persia (Iran)Period: Circa 1930Style: Classic PersianTechnique: Entirely hand-knottedMaterial: 100% pure silkKnot density: Approximately 600,000 knots/m²Pile height: Approximately 5 mm (0.5 cm / 0.20 inches)Length: 200 cm (78.74 inches)Width: 133 cm (52.36 inches)Area: 2.66 m²Shape: RectangularDesign: Multi-lobed central medallion and floral motifsBackground: IvoryColors: Burgundy, midnight blue, pink, light blue, cream, and goldCondition Antique rug showing signs of natural use and wear consistent with its age.A few areas of thinned pile, slight surface wear, and signs of age on the fringes and borders are visible.These features should be taken into account when assessing its overall condition and are shown in the detailed photographs.The floral design, the large central medallion, and the overall composition remain clearly visible.Decorative and Collectible Value A beautiful collectible Persian rug, prized for its age, the purity of its materials, the fineness of its knotting, and its decorative elegance.Its dimensions make it easy to incorporate into a living room, library, office, or bedroom.A piece with character, intended for connoisseurs of antique Persian rugs and collectors of Oriental textiles.