Description

This elegant teak dressing table, created by French designer Roger Landault (1919-1983)*, embodies the refinement of postwar French design.Its sleek silhouette is enhanced by drawer fronts upholstered in brown nubuck, adding a warm and sophisticated touch.Functional and ingenious, it features three drawers with discreet handles, while its hinged lift-up top reveals a mirror and a storage compartment delicately lined with poppy-red felt, creating a subtle and elegant contrast.The set is complemented by two matching ottomans, with soft lines and coordinating finishes, which round out this piece that is both practical and decidedly decorative.*Roger Landault (1919-1983), regarded as a design genius--as talented as he was precocious--enrolled at the Lycée des Arts
