Description

Gothic bronze censer - 15th-century Flemish work, medieval, Middle Ages, High Middle AgesRare bronze censer from the Gothic period, dating from the 15th century, likely of Flemish origin.It consists of two parts: a circular bowl resting on a base and an upper cage that is entirely openwork, creating a beautiful interplay of ornamentation and transparency.The piece is complete. Note the historic restoration of the small loops designed to hold the suspension chains, attesting to the history and age of this object.Given its type, construction, and patina, this censer is a remarkable example of late-Medieval goldsmithing and liturgical furnishings.A rare antique piece steeped in history, of particular interest to collectors of medieval art and liturgical objects.Height: 21
