Description

Chinese Gilded Bronze BUddha Statue of Guanyin.Circa 19th centuryAlso known as Avalokiteshvara or Kwan-yin, she embodies the bodhisattva of compassion in East Asian Buddhism.Guanyin (Avalokiteshvara), the bodhisattva of compassion, is depicted in a classic seated meditative posture.Guanyin is dressed in elaborately crafted traditional attire; she sits upon a pedestal consisting of a multi-tiered lotus blossom set atop an architectural base. The figure is framed from behind by a mandorla adorned with flame motifs and depictions of dragons.The piece features partial gilding--gold leaf or golden lacquer highlights the face, hands, and central garments--creating a striking contrast against the dark bronze (or lacquered surface) of the body
