Description

This console features a canted top in deep black lacquer, underlined by a brass edge, above an apron opening with two drawers with rectangular brass escutcheons. The corner uprights, faceted and clad in brass alternating with the lacquer, descend to a lower black-lacquered tier ringed in brass that closes the composition at the bottom and serves as a shelf.This rigorous dialogue between mirror-black lacquer and gilt brass is the signature of Jean-Claude Mahey, the French creator of the 1970s whose lacquered furniture -- consoles, sideboards, coffee tables -- embodies the Parisian chic of the decade, between Art Deco heritage and seventies glamour.Condition report: Good general condition. Black lacquer of beautiful depth showing possible fine surface scratches inherent to use, brass with an even gilt
