Description

This beautiful example of a regional cross is made using the gold-plated technique, invented in 1827, and bears the hallmark of Auguste François Savard from 1830-1875; his descendants founded the FIX jewelry company, which uses the same gold-plating process.The pendant consists of an oval motif with two loops on the back through which a ribbon can be threaded to wear it around the neck.The central blue-and-white enameled design is framed by plain fillets and a garland of flowers embossed in relief on an amati background.A double jaseron-link chain holds the Savoyard-style cross with ball-tipped arms, the center of which is adorned on both sides with different enameled floral motifs. Square hallmarks:on the slide: star-crescent moon-star SAVARD on the cross ring: doubled 20c.To learn
