Description

Pair of Renaissance-style chairs in carved walnut - 19th centuryA very beautiful and rare pair of chairs in richly carved walnut, dating from the 19th century, in the Renaissance style.These chairs feature a particularly original and uncommon design, with tall, openwork backs in dynamic shapes, richly carved.The base is one of the main attractions of this pair. The front legs, which are particularly elaborately carved, feature beautiful volutes and relief carvings, giving the chairs a remarkable presence.The walnut, with its beautiful hues and warm patina, perfectly highlights the richness of the carving.Through their design and decoration, these chairs reflect the 19th-century historicist taste for furniture inspired by the French Renaissance. Their design is notably in the Henri II style, which was highly
