Description

An elegant Tuscan bookcase made of light walnut, dating from the mid-19th century, consisting of two stackable sections. The open-shelf upper section is divided into three compartments by pilasters topped with capitals and features an interior lining of blue-toned fabric, which highlights the displayed objects. The piece is crowned by a rich, molded, projecting upper cornice. The lower section features three large paneled doors, each finished with a molded frame, concealing a spacious interior compartment with a shelf. The bookcase retains a beautiful natural patina in warm walnut tones. The structure can be disassembled into two parts, a feature that facilitates its transport.Origin: Tuscany, 19th centuryDimensions: lower section 232 × 47 cm, height 90 cm; upper section 225 ×
