Description

Black pencil on paper, signed and located in the lower left corner, view size 25 x 37 cmBorn in London, Oliver Hall studied at the Royal College of Art, as well as at the art schools in Westminster and Lambeth. A painter and printmaker, he specialized in landscapes, with a particular fondness for rugged moorlands and views of Spain. Oliver Hall traveled frequently to Spain, as well as to France and Italy. He was elected to the Royal Academy of Arts in 1927. Some of his works are housed at the Tate Gallery in London. He is the father of the artist Claude Muncaster.The drawing shown here depicts a boathouse on the shores of Lake Windermere. This lake is located in the county of Cumbria, England, within the Lake District National Park. Oliver Hall emphasizes the romantic aspect of the view, giving prominence to the vegetation overgrowing the old stone walls. The lively line work and the composition of the drawing--with its irregular edges and an impression of being unfinished--suggest that the work was sketched from life.The drawing is sold in a mounting that includes a pH-neutral backing board, an off-white beveled mat, a sealed protective enclosure, 2 mm-thick glass, a hanging fixture, and a modern frame. If you would like to purchase the drawing without the modern frame, please contact the gallery before making your purchase.
