Description

Pair of Chased Ormolu Candlesticks inverted in table-lamps, Restauration Period, circa 1820

Description:
This pair of chased ormolu candlesticks rises on a fluted shaft, topped by a ring of flowers and a garland of leaves and fruit.
The vase-shaped nozzle is decorated with acanthus leaves and clusters of beads. The base of the shaft is carved with acanthus leaves, and the circular foot features a radiating pattern of roses.

These candlesticks reflect the skill of Parisian bronze-workers during the Restauration, who took up the vocabulary inherited from the Empire and enriched it with more abundant floral ornament. The quality of the chasing and the
