Description

Originating from Mandalay, the Burmese capital of sculptors of ancient Buddhist art, this is a depiction of a standing Buddha on a stylized lotus-shaped pedestal. Objects of this type, dating from the late 19th century, were intended to adorn the many temples and home altars. Crafted from carved wood and covered with several layers of black and then red lacquer, with some traces of old gilding. With its refined lines and great elegance, it exudes a gentle presence...
