Description

Marius Musarra - Mabyjo's Studio, Vallauris - Large Ceramic Bowl and Pitcher - Circa 1950-1960 A beautiful set of two decorative ceramic pieces attributed to Marius Musarra, Mabyjo's studio in Vallauris, dating from the 1950s-1960s.This set consists of a large, free-form bowl and an elegant pitcher with a long, tapered spout--features characteristic of the creativity of the Vallauris workshops in the mid-20th century.Both pieces feature a superb black glaze with white foam-like effects, creating a highly contrasting texture, combined with a bright, glossy red glaze.The large oval bowl, with its irregular and dynamic contours, features a flamboyant red central design that contrasts with the reliefs of the black and white enamel.The particularly sculptural pitcher features a generous
