Description

Large 6-panel folding screen dating from the late 19th century.This beautiful six-panel screen features a panoramic painted scene: the upper section depicts a coastal landscape bustling with numerous figures and boats, while the lower section showcases trompe-l'oeil woodwork.The piece consists of a fine painting on paper, mounted onto canvas and set within a wooden frame. It was likely inspired by the renowned panoramic wallpapers produced by the Zuber manufactory.There is a small area of lifting (approximately 6 cm) on the lower section--easily restorable and visible in the accompanying photographs.Overall, the piece is in very good condition, with the colors remaining remarkably fresh and vibrant. It is a superb and highly decorative screen. Please note that this is an
