Description

An elegant Empire-style secrétaire of French origin, dating from the early 19th century, crafted from fine mahogany featherwood, characterized by an extraordinary richness of grain and the warm reddish tones of the wood.The piece stands out for its elegant architectural design, embellished by a pair of turned, tapered columns with capitals and decorative elements in finely chiseled bronze gilded with mercury. The front, defined by clean lines and harmonious proportions, features a refined interplay of mirrored veneers, further enhanced by exquisite gilded bronze ornamentation.Completing the ensemble is a striking top made of black Belgian marble, which lends further elegance and prestige to the composition.A piece of great charm and prestige, an expression of the refined French
