Infant's Head In White Marble, After Jean Carriès

950 EUR

Signature : D'après Jean Carriès (1855-1894)

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Marble

Height : 16 cm

Description

A charming sculpture in white Carrara marble based on the famous infant head by Jean Joseph Carriès (1855-1894).The face is adorable and emerges from the marble as if from a flower's corolla; of course, it is a garment, but it is reminiscent of the work of certain contemporary photographers who make babies' faces emerge from roses or cabbages.The sculpture is inspired by and perfectly captures the spirit of Carriès's infant faces.The finish is superb, with a beautiful antique patina.Excellent condition.A truly beautiful Art Nouveau sculpture of a baby's face.Dimensions: 16 cm tall.We deliver and ship worldwide; please contact us for an accurate quote.Jean-Joseph-Marie Carriès was a French sculptor and ceramicist born in Lyon on February 15, 1855, and died in Paris on July 1, 1894. He is

Dealer

Antoine Claeys - Maison du XVème
antiquaire généraliste
Mobile : 06 85 53 27 42

24 grande Rue
Nogent l'Artaud 02 310

renowned for his glazed stoneware, influenced by Japanese ceramics, and his dreamlike creatures, which link him to the Symbolist movement.
Wikipedia