Description

"Sillo Foradat" armchair, a one-of-a-kind piece crafted from pine and blue pigment by Chilean artist and designer Juan Guillermo Tejeda Marshall, known as Tex, in 1983.Its asymmetrical construction combines a semicircular backrest with an openwork, fan-shaped structure on the left side. The right armrest forms a solid geometric shape, while the seat features a graphic design rendered in blue pigment.This armchair is part of a collection of seventeen designs presented at the Blauhaus exhibition, held in 1983 at the Fundació Caixa de Pensions in Barcelona, curated by Safia, Guillemot, and Navarés.This exhibition explored the relationship between artistic creation and functional furniture, through an experimental approach characteristic of 1980s design.One-of-a-kind piece, Barcelona,
