Description

A very pretty Art Nouveau vase decorated with orchids and spiderwebs by Daum.Featuring a stunning design--a true ode to nature, typical of the Art Nouveau movement--this delicate little vase is entirely acid-etched and very finely glazed by the Dessus workshop. Beautiful colors, with the red of the flowers contrasting with a mottled golden-yellow background on the upper part and a brown background on the base. Elegant shape with a small foot, a straight body, and a small open neck.The spiderweb pattern is very delicate--it's superb craftsmanship...In perfect condition, 9 cm tall, signature engraved in a coat-of-arms motif on the side, circa 1905.A true little gem of 1900s glassware, Daum at its finest.
