Description

An Art Deco column pedestal from France, made around 1920. A tall, slightly tapering copper column rises from a square base and is finished at both ends with stepped red copper rings, crowned by a square top of red marble with white veins.The combination of the yellow copper, the warm pink tones of the red copper rings and the deep red marble creates a rich and elegant play of colours. The clean architectural lines, inspired by a classical column, are typical of the Art Deco taste for geometry and luxurious materials. The marble top has a lively pattern of white veins and catches the light beautifully.The pedestal measures 118 cm high, with a top of 30.5 x 30.5 cm. The metal shows tarnish and spots, giving it an authentic aged look that can be left as it is or polished.A stylish stand for a sculpture, a vase, a
