Description

Art Deco dresser in walnut and walnut burl, 1920s, attributed to the Ducrot workshop in Palermo.An elegant piece of furniture belonging to a refined bedroom set produced in Sicily in the 1920s. Crafted from solid walnut and select walnut burl, it stands out for the intense grain of the burl, characterized by a striking marbled effect. The sinuous, flowing lines combine with geometric elements and substantial volumes, reflecting the style of Italian Art Deco design during the transition from Art Nouveau. A piece of remarkable craftsmanship, enhanced by the refinement of its materials and the elegance of its forms.
