Description

Antique mirror in carved and gilded wood - NeoclassicalA refined and elegant antique mirror in carved and gilded wood with a half-lacquered finish, from the Neoclassical period.The main rectangular frame is richly decorated along its entire perimeter with a band of square panels featuring floral rosettes carved in relief, enclosed within beaded profiles and architectural moldings. At the upper corners, two circular corollas stand out, from which garlands of carved laurel leaves cascade down the side posts.The cornice is embellished with a second oval-shaped panel, framed by laurel garlands that connect to the base via a central bow. The top pediment culminates in an elegant love knot surmounted by a floral and foliage motif.The original mirrors (both the main one and the one on the cornice)
