Japanese "crane" Tsuba Pendant In Solid Silver - Maison Arthus-bertrand & Cie

345 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Parfait état

Material : Sterling silver

Diameter : 5 cm environ

Description

This piece of jewelry draws on the traditional aesthetic of a tsuba (sword guard) adorned with a stylized crane with outstretched wings (Tsuru-maru), a Japanese symbol of longevity and happiness. A crane with a long neck curved upward. Its oval body features a vertical opening reminiscent of the blade's passage through a traditional sword guard. The wings curl symmetrically to form a perfect circle, composed of a delicate network of ribs and openwork festoons (sukashi) arranged in a fan shape. Polished, shiny solid silver, featuring a smooth oval bail. Presented on a silver chain with elongated forçat links.Silver fineness of at least 800/1000, Crab hallmarks on the pendant and on the chain.Goldsmith's hallmark and a cursive "M" hallmark. Medallion: 4.8 cm x 5.0 cmThickness:

Dealer

Lucas L&E
Argenterie ancienne, Arts liturgiques, Arts Russes, Arts de la tables
Mobile : 0615687757

Maisons-Laffitte 78600

2 mmChain: max. length: 64 cmWeight: 48 gIn perfect condition