Description

An elegant pair of circular side tables with white marble tops embellished with intricate inlays of polychrome marble and semi-precious stones depicting evocative views of Rome. The first depicts Piazza del Popolo with its twin churches and the Flaminio Obelisk, while the second portrays an idealized view of ancient Rome featuring the Colosseum and classical monuments. The tops, framed by elegant molded white marble borders, rest on exquisite gilded bronze tripod bases, characterized by sinuous supports, ornamental volutes, and animal-foot finials. A refined example of mid-19th-century Italian decorative art, inspired by the Grand Tour aesthetic.Period: Italy, mid-19th century, circa 1850.Dimensions: Diameter 65 cm; height 79 cm.
