Description

This ethnic piece of jewelry, crafted from solid silver, is adorned with red coral cabochons and turquoise stones. Its striking square "signet ring" shape and the combination of these two stones are characteristic of Nepalese or Tibetan craftsmanship from the early 20th century.The 925 silver setting has a tall, geometric shape with a square top. It is set with 5 coral cabochons and 12 turquoise stones, surrounded by small silver "granules" featuring a floral motif. This traditional "protective" piece (coral + turquoise) is a ceremonial ring or "archer's thumb ring."Diamond-shaped hallmarks "B.D" on the bandand "935" on the inside. Gross weight: 22 g.In very good original condition.
