Description

18th-century stone foot fragments, Italy. They could be interpreted as votive representations of parts of the human body, in which the foot took on a symbolic meaning linked to a request for protection, healing, or gratitude for a favor received; alternatively, they may have been parts of a larger sculptural group. Overall, these artifacts feature three-dimensional carving with a naturalistic rendering of the toes and anatomical forms. Foot 1 Dimensions: height 11 cm, width 30 cm, depth 12 cm Foot 2 Dimensions: height 13 cm, width 26 cm, depth 11 cm
