Description

Pair of Oriental lamps made of repoussé and openwork copper - Probably Moroccan in originA highly decorative pair of oriental lamps, likely of Moroccan origin, made of repoussé, chiseled, and openwork copper, adorned with polychrome glass cabochons.Their elegant dome-shaped lampshades are embellished with long fringes and garlands of multicolored beads, forming a delicate arabesque design.The openwork metalwork, combined with the colorful cabochons and beads, creates a remarkable play of light and warm reflections.
