18th-century Louis XVI-style Mahogany Console Table In A Trapezoidal Shape With A Marble Top

2 400 EUR

Period : 18th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Mahogany

Description

An elegant Louis XVI-era mahogany console table with a trapezoidal shape. Wider at the back than at the front, it features concave sides that give its silhouette a particularly graceful line.The white marble top, veined with gray, follows the contours of the piece. It is encircled by a gilded metal band and edged, on the sides and back, by a delicate openwork railing.The band opens at the front to reveal a drawer adorned with two circular handles featuring beaded decoration and an oval keyhole with foliage motifs. Fine gilded moldings accentuate the side panels and the front of the drawer.Four tapered, fluted legs trimmed with gilded metal are topped with cleats. They are joined by a mahogany crossbar, which is also edged with an openwork rail. Two gilded rosettes adorn the connecting blocks at the front.With a
