Description

A very beautiful walnut cabinet in perfect condition. Dating from the 18th century and in the Louis XV style , this piece is known as a "gendarme's cap" cabinet because the shape of its cornice resembles the old kepis worn by the gendarmerie. It opens at the front with two doors and a wide drawer and features numerous shelves that provide ample storage space . The piece is in its original condition and has undergone only routine restoration. The antique patina is absolutely superb and gives the piece all the charm of the furniture found in the grand estates of that era
