Rapiere-style Sword, Known As The "pappenheimer," 17th Century

1 850 EUR

Period : 17th century

Condition : Etat d'usage

Description

Pappenheimer-style sword, circa 1620-1660.Forged iron mount consisting of a richly chiseled, hemispherical shell-shaped guard, openworked with foliage scrolls surmounted by a secondary network of branches forming the protective basket.S-shaped quillons.A body knot from which the multi-branched guard with a double pontas extends.A pear-shaped pommel with twisted gadroons.A wooden tang covered with alternating iron filigree.Double-edged blade with a central fuller running almost the entire length.Engravings of a Latin motto in the hollow:IN TE DOMINE SEPERAVI NON on one side and CONFUNDAR IN ETERNUM on the other.Which translates to: In you, Lord, I have hoped; I shall never be put to shame.This motto appears to be typical of Solingen productions
