A friend of Jongkind, Boudin, and Cals, he also associated with Alphonse Allais and was tasked with protecting the museums of Paris during the Paris Commune.Héreau's style is distinctive, reflecting his dual academic and Impressionist training as well as his attachment to the region he painted, Normandy. A student at the École des Beaux-Arts in Paris, he began his career as a painter alongside the Barbizon School artists and

Charles Jacques.His paintings reveal a quest for atmosphere, characterized by a lively, Impressionist touch, strong chiaroscuro contrasts, and intense light with bold highlights of white that evoke the luminosity of Normandy, as well as bold colors--particularly the greens and grays that evoke a sense of dampness. There is also a grandeur worthy of history painting in his works, as seen here, where the shepherd and his dog take center stage in the composition, and where the cart on the path passes with a certain elegance, enhanced by the pretty umbrella carried by the woman returning home!Jules Héreau's works are housed in numerous museums throughout France, notably in Le Havre, Amiens, Cherbourg, Rouen, Périgueux, and Montpellier.
