Description

A Napoleon III-era display cabinet/bookcase in the Louis XVI style, featuring marquetry of lemonwood and amaranth, accented by double stringing in ebony and boxwood.The cabinet is fully glazed on the sides and front; notably, the two corners feature curved glass panels that extend from top to bottom.Gilt-bronze moldings--decorated with water leaves, ovolo motifs, laurel leaves, and acanthus--accentuate the cornice, base, and pediment, while also framing the doors, the convex panels, and the sides.The piece stands on tapered, circular (toupie-style) feet fitted with bronze collars.The cabinet is in very good overall condition; however, there are two small losses to the veneer on the rounded sections of the upper cornice. Some small bronze elements require
