Description

A stunning extendable solid teak dining table designed by Danish designer Johannes Andersen, dating from 1965. A true icon of mid-century Scandinavian furniture, it captivates with its warm natural teak tones ranging from light brown to golden brown, beautifully showcased by a rich wood grain and the distinctive bevelled edge typical of 1960s Danish design.

The rectangular top sits on four tapering, splayed legs that give the piece the graphic elegance and visual lightness that define Scandinavian style. The table comes with two integrated 40 cm leaves, making it easy to seat more guests while maintaining a perfectly cohesive look.

Fully restored, it is in very good overall
