Description

A very interesting "mysterious" clock in gilt brass with a conical pendulum.This pendulum oscillates while rotating like a dowser's pendulum, connected to the escapement by a fork into which the tip of the pendulum fits.This clock was restored a few years ago and is in excellent condition, but it hasn't been running for a very long time, and the oil may have thickened slightly, making it difficult to start...So it needs to be checked by a watchmaker to get it running again.
