Description

An elegant bowl crafted from natural rock crystal, featuring a refined silver mount. The bowl consists of a small, hemispherical basin with slightly flared sides and a circular rim, carved from a single block of translucent rock crystal. Its surface displays natural inclusions, veils, and milky nuances, which lend the material a distinctive luminosity and depth. The basin is supported by a silver connector, from which rises a slender stem, accented near the top by a globular rock crystal element. The base--notably original in design--is shaped with four rounded lobes, creating a pleasing, dynamic, and multicolored effect. The interplay between the transparency and natural inclusions of the crystal and the exquisite metal mount results in a piece of remarkable elegance, where the raw, material
