Description

Important pair of cast and chiseled lead vases on pedestals from the Victorian era in the Neoclassical style 19th century.The Body and Base: Each piece features an ovoid shape resting on a circular, molded pedestal. The body is entirely punctuated by broad twisted flutes and raised godrons that accentuate the object's verticality.Ornamentation: The upper part of the vase is encircled by a delicate frieze of festooned drapery (garlands). The attachment points of these festoons are enlivened by anthropomorphic mascarons The Lids: They feature a curved profile that echoes the radiating fluting pattern and are topped with their original finials in the form of fleurons or fluted spinning tops.
