Description

An antique Senneh rug, originating from Iran, dating from the mid-19th century, around 1860. Crafted from very fine, high-quality kork wool, it stands out for the precision of its weaving and the richness of its ornamental design.Its midnight blue field features a delicate scattering of flowers and palmettes. The design is framed by an elegant ochre border that echoes the same floral motif, highlighting a crenellated beige central medallion adorned with blooming flowers.The composition is accentuated by two small borders that harmoniously structure the design.A remarkable antique piece, attesting to the refinement of 19th-century Senneh carpets and the craftsmanship of Persian artisans.Period: Circa 1860Origin: Iran, Senneh regionMaterial: Kork woolDensity: 12,000 knots per
