Description

An elegant Heemskerk-style brass candlestick, featuring a fluted bowl pierced with circular holes, a baluster-style shaft, and a wide central cup. The entire piece rests on a flared circular base, accented with concentric bands.The golden-hued surface retains a darker patina in the recesses, highlighting the candlestick's forms.According to tradition, a small fragment of the base's rim was intentionally broken in the 17th century during a wedding, when the candlestick was presented as a wedding gift.Period: 17th century.Height: 19.5 cm.Condition: wear, scratches, and minor distortions due to age and use. Small, old chip on the edge of the base, accompanied by cracks. Slight irregularities along the rim of the bowl. See the photographs for details.
