Pair Of Columns - Thomas Peters

7 800 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Marble

Description

A refined pair of neoclassical columns, attributed to Thomas Peters, made in the early decades of the 19th century and originating from Genoa. Made entirely of mahogany and mahogany burl, they feature an architectural structure of great elegance, characterized by fluted shafts, refined decorative elements in relief, and intricate turned moldings, which lend the pieces a remarkable formal balance and a strong visual presence.The upper section is adorned with a white statuary marble top, which highlights the warm coloration and deep grain of the mahogany. The refined woodworking, combined with the richness of the ornamental elements and the purity of the proportions, attests to the quality of early 19th-century Genoese cabinetmaking, during a period when the Neoclassical style was expressed
