Description

An Empire-style chandelier made of carved and gilded bronze, from early 20th-century Italy. The piece features a sophisticated design with six cascading lights, arranged in pairs, supported by curved arms embellished with leaf motifs and scrollwork. The glass pendants add a touch of elegance. At the center of the composition, three additional lights are set within a circular frame, decorated with refined rope-like detailing and embellished with masks and leaves. The central opal glass shade diffuses a soft light, creating a warm and sophisticated atmosphere. This piece is a distinctive example of the craftsmanship of the period, perfect for spaces that call for a touch of historic elegance.Product condition:This lamp, due to its age and wear, may require restoration and likely has an electrical system that does not
